Subject: Clear and Reasonable Warnings Regulation

Having heard an interview with your Chief Deputy Director today on KPCC's Air Talk Program, I feel I must object to the current plan for checkout-only BPA warnings. I agree with the speaker from the Center for Environmental Health, who explained that such warnings are inadequate, and the reasoning behind them is flawed. If it has been decided that BPA poses a risk, that information shouldn't be hidden from consumers.

Mr. Hirsch did stress that the plan has not been finalized, and he invited public comment. Thank you for considering mine.
